Induſtry "exalteth a Nation; and the Hand of the diligent maketh rich."

AT a Time when our Mother Country is loading us with Taxes and reducing our Commerce within narrow Limits, it becomes the Duty of every lover of his Country, to look round and conſider how, and by what Means we may be able to ſupport ourſelves: For as our Paper Money, the Medium by which we carry on Trade, will be totally ſunk and deſtroyed in a few Years, and the late Act of Parliament abſolutely prohibits us from making any more, there will be a real Neceſſity to have recourſe to domeſtic Oeconomy, as the only Means of diſcharging the Debts we have already contracted; and as this will likewiſe prevent us from making more Debts, ſo will it alſo ſave us from the Neceſſity of parting with our Bullion in the deſtructive Way we have done for ſome time paſt.[*] Nor can an internal Police, replete with ſo many obvious Advantages, as that of ſtriving to live within ourſelves, fail of being encouraged by the Patriot Spirits of Pennſylvania; particularly when we are told that the People of a neighbouring Government are ſetting us the Example, having in bodies declared againſt wearing or conſuming any Thing but what is manufactured in America. And indeed when we conſider how we are circumſtanced, in reſpect to all the Neceſſaries of Life, and that the Produce and Manufactories of our own Country, when properly encouraged and promoted, are ſufficient of themſelves to ſupport us, even in Elegance and Luxury, we ſhall have little Reaſon to continue any Trade that has hitherto brought Poverty and a Scourge upon us. The Trade we carry on with the Weſt-India Planters may be inſtanced as one that is clearly againſt us, and yet it is to thoſe very Men, and their Intereſt, that we owe the many oppreſſive Calamities we now feel; for by the Steps they have taken, not only the Profits of our Induſtry are ſubjected to their arbitrary Will and Pleaſure, but in fact, they have brought us into a State of Vaſſalage. And while our Taſtes, our Conſtitutions and our Morals are debauched by their unwholeſome, pernicious and inflaming Spirits, the ſalutary Manufactures of our own Country, ſuch as Beer, Spirits of properly fermented Honey and Indian Corn, a Liquor diſtilled from Rye, Peaches, &c. together with many valuable Wines, which our Induſtry and Genius might lead us to make at a ſmall Expence, are moſt lamentably neglected.— — — — — — — — — — — — — — I ſhall juſt obſerve upon the whole, that America, tho' burthened with Duties and embarraſſed in her Trade, yet has reaſon to rejoice that the tribulating Rod cannot affect her; for being poſſeſſed in herſelf of all the Elegances and Comforts of Life, ſhe has it in her Power to educate her Sons in the Habits of Induſtry, Oeconomy and Temperance, the ſure preſages of all that is GREAT, VIRTUOUS and HAPPY.

[*] We have been credibly informed by ſome who have kept an exact account, That not leſs than 1,800,000 Dollars have been exported from this ſingle Province, within theſe two Years, which may account for the preſent Scarcity of Money amongſt us.

Extract from a late PUBLICATION.

EVEN in the moſt ancient Times, and before the Advantages of Commerce were well underſtood, thoſe Nations which have ſince been reputed the Wiſeſt, were ſo ſenſible of the utility of the firſt Inventions in Agriculture, in manufacturing Cloths, and Metals, and in Navigation, that they not only reſpected, but deified, the Inventors: In what Reſpect then, ought we, who reap the Harveſt, which thoſe Seeds have produced, to hold thoſe Worthies who firſt Planted them, or who watched and cultivated their Growth. When we conſider what Effects have ſprung from ſlight Beginnings, every Project or Attempt for new Improvements in Agriculture, Manufacture, and Commerce, deſerves Attention, and the Inventors merit at leaſt our Thanks. A Compariſon between the preſent populous and flouriſhing State of England, and it's Condition in more early Times, can't but afford great Entertainment to a curious, and Pleaſure to a grateful Mind. Even ſo late as the Century preceding the Reformation, England was thinly inhabited, and the Common People were Slaves or Beggars, or Thieves: They lived in Terror of one another, or of the oppreſſive Barons. There was but little Culture of the Soil, and very few Arts and Manufactures. The great Cities and Towns were little better than dirty Villages. The common People lived in Huts built of Mud, or Clay, without Chimnies, and even the Bed-Chambers in many of the beſt Houſes in Towns, and Country, had Clay Floors covered with Litter. If we go farther back, we ſhall find that the People of this (at preſent) flouriſhing Country, were no better than Savages inhabiting a great Foreſt.

In their Subſcriptions to Synodal Acts, the following Words are to be found, namely, As I can't Read myſelf, N. N. hath Subſcribed for me; Or, (As my Lord Biſhop can't Write himſelf, at his Requeſt I have Subſcribed,) yet were there many Inventions, and Improvements.

ST. JAGO DE LA VEGA, in Jamaica, March 17.

ON Monday Evening laſt, about 10 o'Clock, as Mr. Francis Smart, at Paſſage Fort, was waſhing himſelf, he was ſuddenly ſeized by an Alligator, about 10 Feet long, which faſtened upon his Thigh, and endeavoured to drag him into deep Water, but he, through a quick Preſence of Mind, running his Hand down the Alligator's Throat, and faſtening upon ſome of the Entrails, ſaved himſelf from being deſtroyed until Aſſiſtance was brought him, and he got into a Wherry; notwithſtanding which, ſo voracious was this Creature become by taſting his Blood, that he endeavoured to ſeize him again in the Wherry, and even got his fore Feet upon the Side of the ſame; however, Mr. Smart, with ſome Aſſiſtance, eſcaped from him, but was very much hurt in his Thigh and Arm, but is now in a fine way of doing well.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.

Extract of a Letter from Barbados, May 23, 1764.

"Mr. Harriſon, who, for his Advances towards the Diſcovery of the Longitude, has obtained an Order upon the Treaſury for Five Thouſand Pounds, is now at Barbados. His Time Piece as he calls it, or Watch, has ſucceeded as well on his Voyage to this Iſland, as it did to Jamaica; nay, I believe, nearer, as he brought it within a Minute. He hit the Iſland of Porto Santo exactly. And from the Certificate that Sir John Lindſay (the Captain of the Ship he came in) gave him, as well as the Correſpondence of the Obſervations the two Gentlemen have made that were ſent out by the Commiſſioners for the Longitude, it is judged that he will certainly be intitled to the whole Premium upon his Return to England."

By a Letter from Fort Bedford, dated the 15th Inſtant, there is Advice, that a Party of ours had been out after the Enemy, whom they came in Sight of, and fired at, but could not come up with; and that as the Indians were flying from our People, a white Boy, they had Priſoner, fell from his Horſe, upon which they killed and ſcalped him, cut off his Head, and left it in the Road.

On Tueſday Night laſt the Captain of a New-England Schooner, lying at Cheſtnut-ſtreet Wharff, had his Cheſt opened, and a Bag carried off, containing Four Hundred and Fifty Dollars. And we hear there were ſundry Things beſides taken from the Veſſel.

as he calls it, of Watch, has ſucceeded as well on his Voyage to this Iſland, as it did to Jamaica; nay, I believe, nearer, as he brought it within a Minute. He hit the Iſland of Porto Santo exactly. And from the Certificate that Sir John Lindſay (the Captain of the Ship he came in) gave him, as well as the Correſpondence of the Obſervations the two Gentlemen have made that were ſent out by the Commiſſioners for the Longitude, it is judged that he will certainly be intitled to the whole Premium upon his Return to England."

By a Letter from Fort Bedford, dated the 15th Inſtant, there is Advice, that a Party of ours had been out after the Enemy, whom they came in Sight of, and fired at, but could not come up with; and that as the Indians were flying from our People, a white Boy, they had Priſoner, fell from his Horſe, upon which they killed and ſcalped him, cut off his Head, and left it in the Road.

On Tueſday Night laſt the Captain of a New-England Schooner, lying at Cheſtnut-ſtreet Wharff, had his Cheſt opened, and a Bag carried off, containing Four Hundred and Fifty Dollars. And we hear there were ſundry Things beſides taken from the Veſſel.
